Vol. 11, No. 1

New York, January-February, 1944

Whole No. 93

Your publishers regret the delay in publication of the last two Journals a fact due entirely to the moving of our office and the enormous amount of work involved in packing our very large stock and reference collection of coins. The March-April number will closely follow this issue.

The very important list of Bank Notes issued in the District of Columbia, written by Mr. John A. Muscalus, is published complete in this Journal. Other similar interesting contributions for the paper money collector are in preparation. Valuable illustrations will accompany each article.

Mr. Nesmith will continue his essay on the coins of Charles and Joanna in the March-April Journal dwelling upon the silver coins of San Domingo and the copper coins from both mints. Suitable illustrations will augment the article.

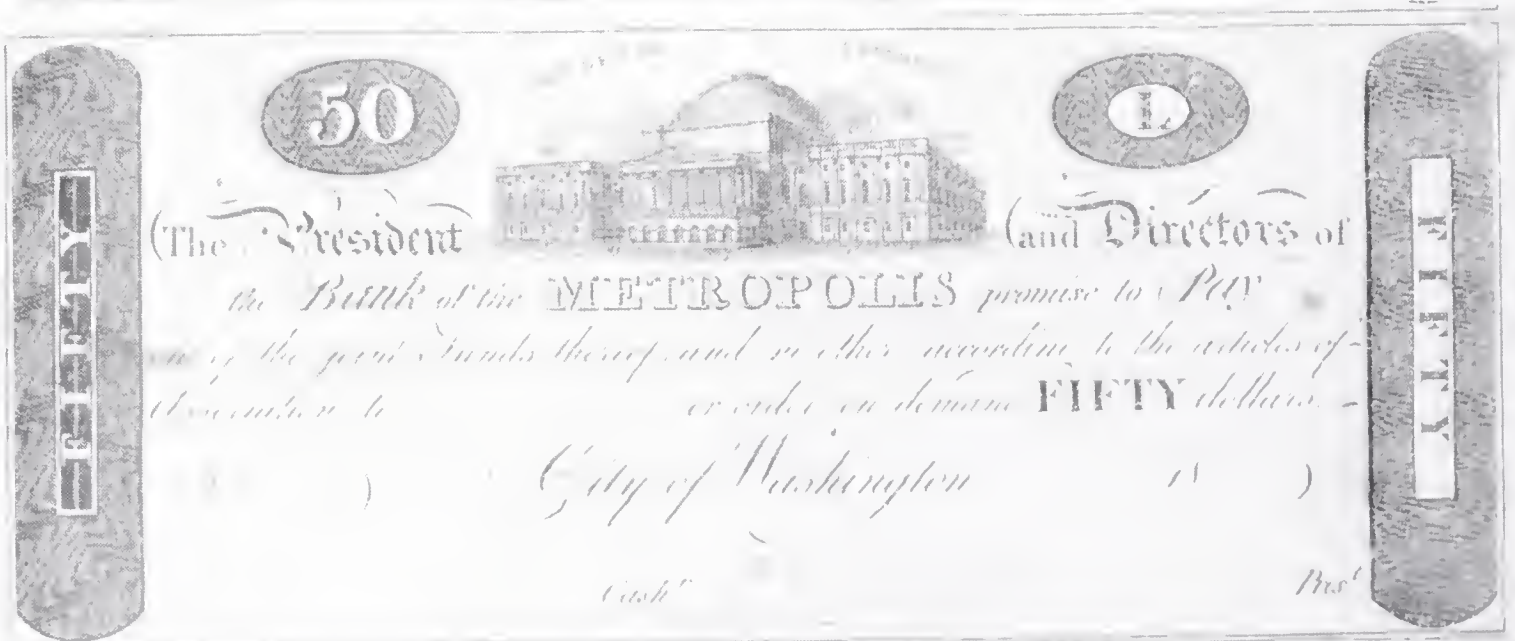

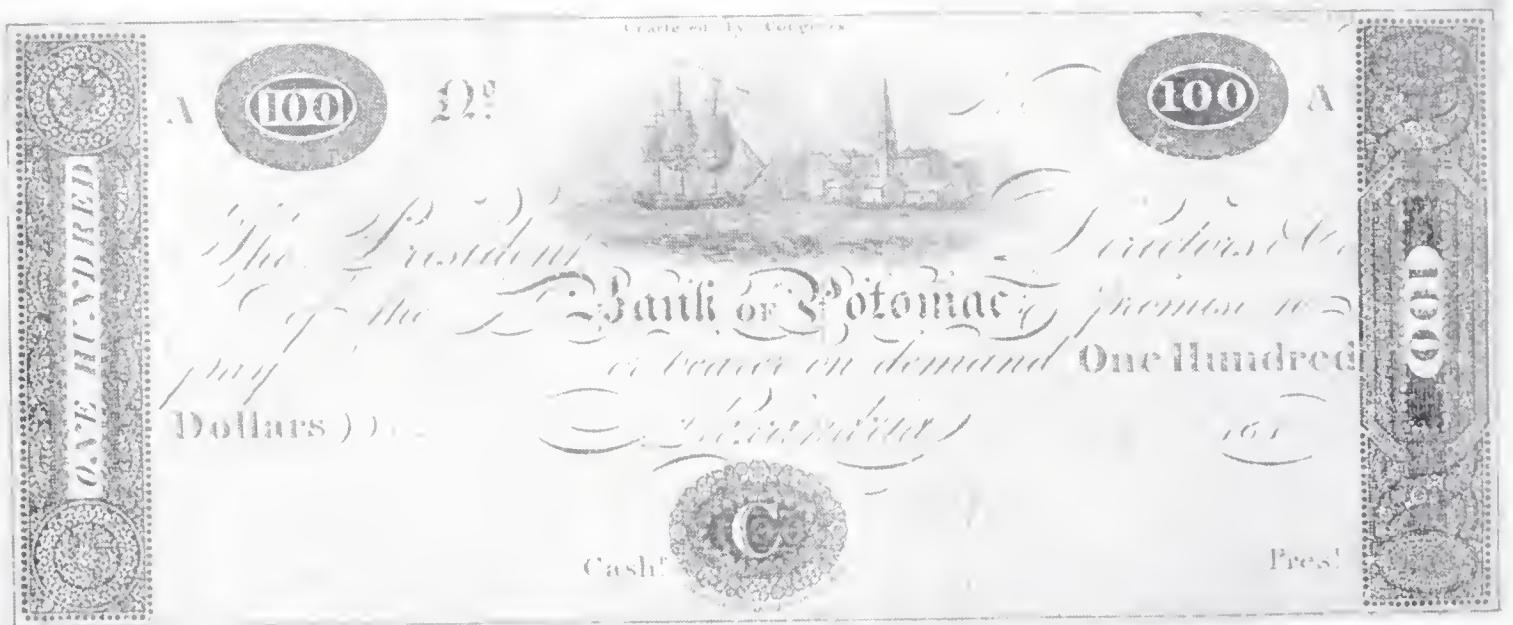

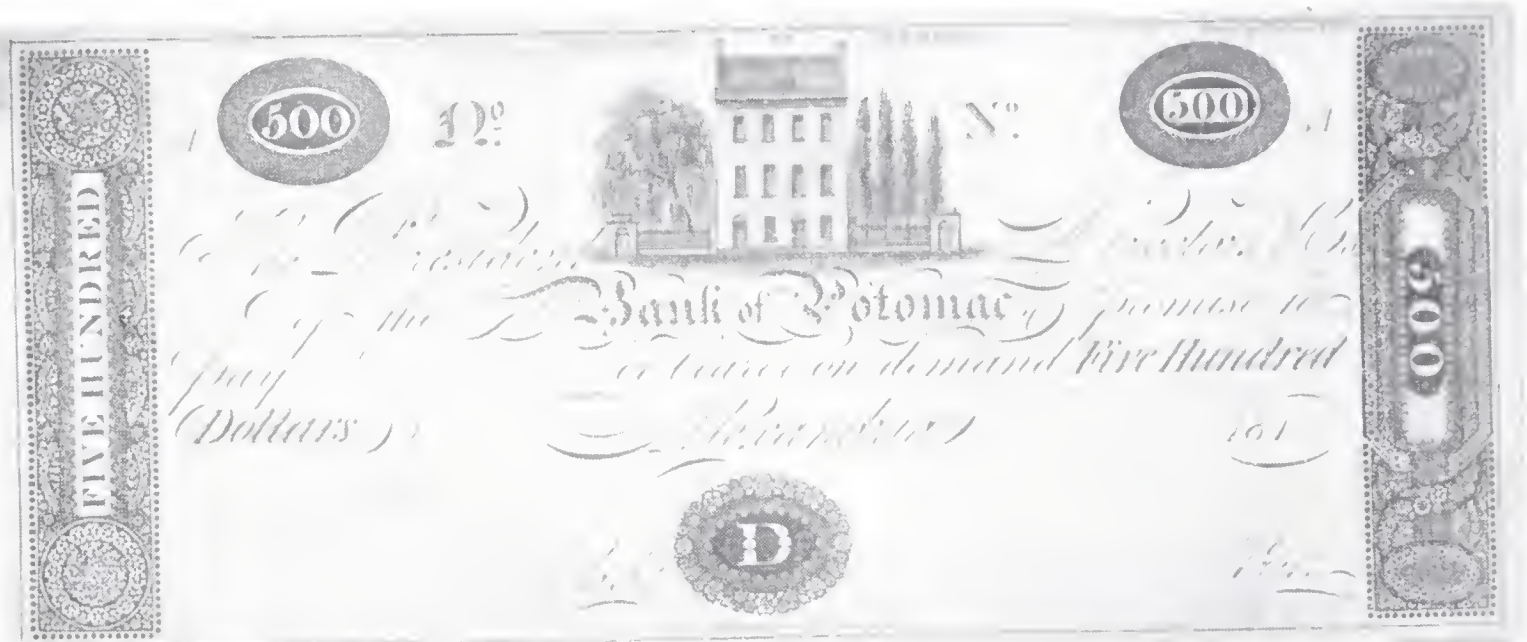

The active market on certain U. S. coins has carried them well over the 1944 catalogue valuations. This is particularly true of early silver, proof dollars and buffalo nickels. The scarcity of certain dates of the nickels is only now being realized. Complete uncirculated sets have sold for as much as nearly double catalogue. All denominations of minor coins uncirculated or proof are in considerable demand.

A flood of silver dollars has been loosed on the market by the Treasury Department through the various Federal Reserve Banks. Most of these dollars are in brilliant mint state and probably formed the reserve against which the old silver certificates were issued. Dates formerly considered rare have appeared in large quantities and collectors are warned against paying much premium for such pieces. The disposition among collectors and dealers is to put away a reasonable number of obtainable dates as an investment but considering the large quantities appearing it does not look like such a good bet.

An up to date supplement for the Standard Paper Money Catalogue was so much sought for that we have prepared an issue similar to the 1943 one.

The prices of paper money seem to be following coin prices upward. Few dealers have a stock of currency and the real rarities in U. S. notes or Fractional Currency are apt to skyrocket at any time.

Paper Money of The District of Columbia

By JOHN A. MUSCALUS, B.Sc., M.Sc.

The purpose of this work is to present a descriptive list of the obsolete paper money issued in the District of Columbia, whether by banks, public service corporations, merchants, or municipal corporations therein.

Of these banks, two were among the earliest chartered banks in the United States and were originally incorporated by Maryland and Virginia. The Bank of Alexandria was chartered by Virginia in 1792, and the Bank of Columbia was chartered by Maryland in 1793. These two banks have the further distinction of having had George Washington among their stockholders.

One of the interesting features of the District of Columbia bank notes is that a number of them have portraits of Jenny Lind.

Although the area known as Alexandria was rescinded to Virginia by a proclamation of July 9, 1846, the municipal notes issued that year are included in the list.

In the descriptive list, "L" refers to the left end of the note, "C" refers to the central part, and "R" refers to the right end of the note. The parenthesis () enclose the names of the engravers of the notes.

Although the descriptions are based on notes in the possession of the author, a list is appended of the few notes not described but existing elsewhere.

JOHN A. MUSCALUS.

Date Designs of United States Coins

By JOSEPH H. SPRAY

Referring to the article "Date Designs of the United States Coins" which appeared in the July-August issue of this Journal, it was stated that the dates prior to 1907 were drawn as a separate entity rather than as part of the general design of the coin.

Continuing this article from the year 1859, we find the date 1860 retains the same general conventional style and size as in 1859. But, the date of the gold dollar and one-cent piece are still smaller, the cent of 1860 bearing the smallest date of any Indian Head cent.

1861 is the same as 1860 in all respects except that the date of the cent is made slightly larger.

This style follows the same system in 1862, regarding style of type and relative size as 1861 except that the figure 2 in 1862 has quite a characteristic 2, having a peculiar twist to its tail and this particular 2 is common to all denominations.

1863 is slightly larger than 1862 on all denominations, but not until 1867 does the size become appreciably larger.

1870 is larger yet, the figures being in thin type, the same as in 1869.

In the period from 1867 to 1871 inclusive, the dates of the one-cent pieces are all curved following the outside edge of the coin, but in 1872 and 1873, the date on the one cent piece is made straight across, being quite small for these two dates. Still retaining their straight form the dates are made larger in 1874 up to and including 1882. From 1883 to the end of the Indian Head cent in 1909, the date was made larger and again curves with the edge, and in general follows the date pattern of the Liberty Head nickel.

The two cent piece dates of 1872 and 1873 are also straight across and not curved as are the prior dates from 1864 to 1871 inclusive.

The Three Nickel Cent piece is an interesting one inasmuch as it starts out with a small date from 1865 to 1875. From there on until 1882 it is a trifle larger. From 1883 to 1887 inclusive it is still larger but in 1888 and 1889 [its last year] it is the largest of all.

The five cent nickel of 1866 has a very small date which carries through up to 1869. The date of 1870, 71 and 72 is larger; 1873 small; 1874 much larger, and with very little variation the size remains the same up to 1882. The shield nickel of 1883 carries a larger date with the figures spaced. The Liberty Head nickels beginning with 1883 have the figures wide spaced which continues up to 1889. From 1890 up to 1895 this date is made slightly smaller and with less space between the figures. From 1895 up it gradually increases its size up to 1906. In 1907 there is a noticeable reduction in the size of the date which continues up to the end of the Liberty nickels in 1912.

The half dimes in the 1860s and to their end in 1873 follows the general idea of the dimes. These dates are usually smaller from 1860 to 1866, after which they become larger in 1867 to 1870.

In 1883 the date of the dimes becomes larger up to 1889, except that the date 1887 is larger than either 1886 or 1888. This date [1887] is larger on all silver and gold coins. The dimes of 1890 and 1891 are smaller than 1889.

The Morgan Dollar of 1878 has a medium sized curved date which follows through to 1883. In 1884 the date is smaller with little change then on to 1904, except that in 1887 there is both a large and small date. On the resumption of this coin in 1921, the date for its last year, 1921, follows the same style and size as in 1904.

The quarters and half dollars follow the general pattern previously outlined.

Two Styled Dates for Minor Coins of 1871

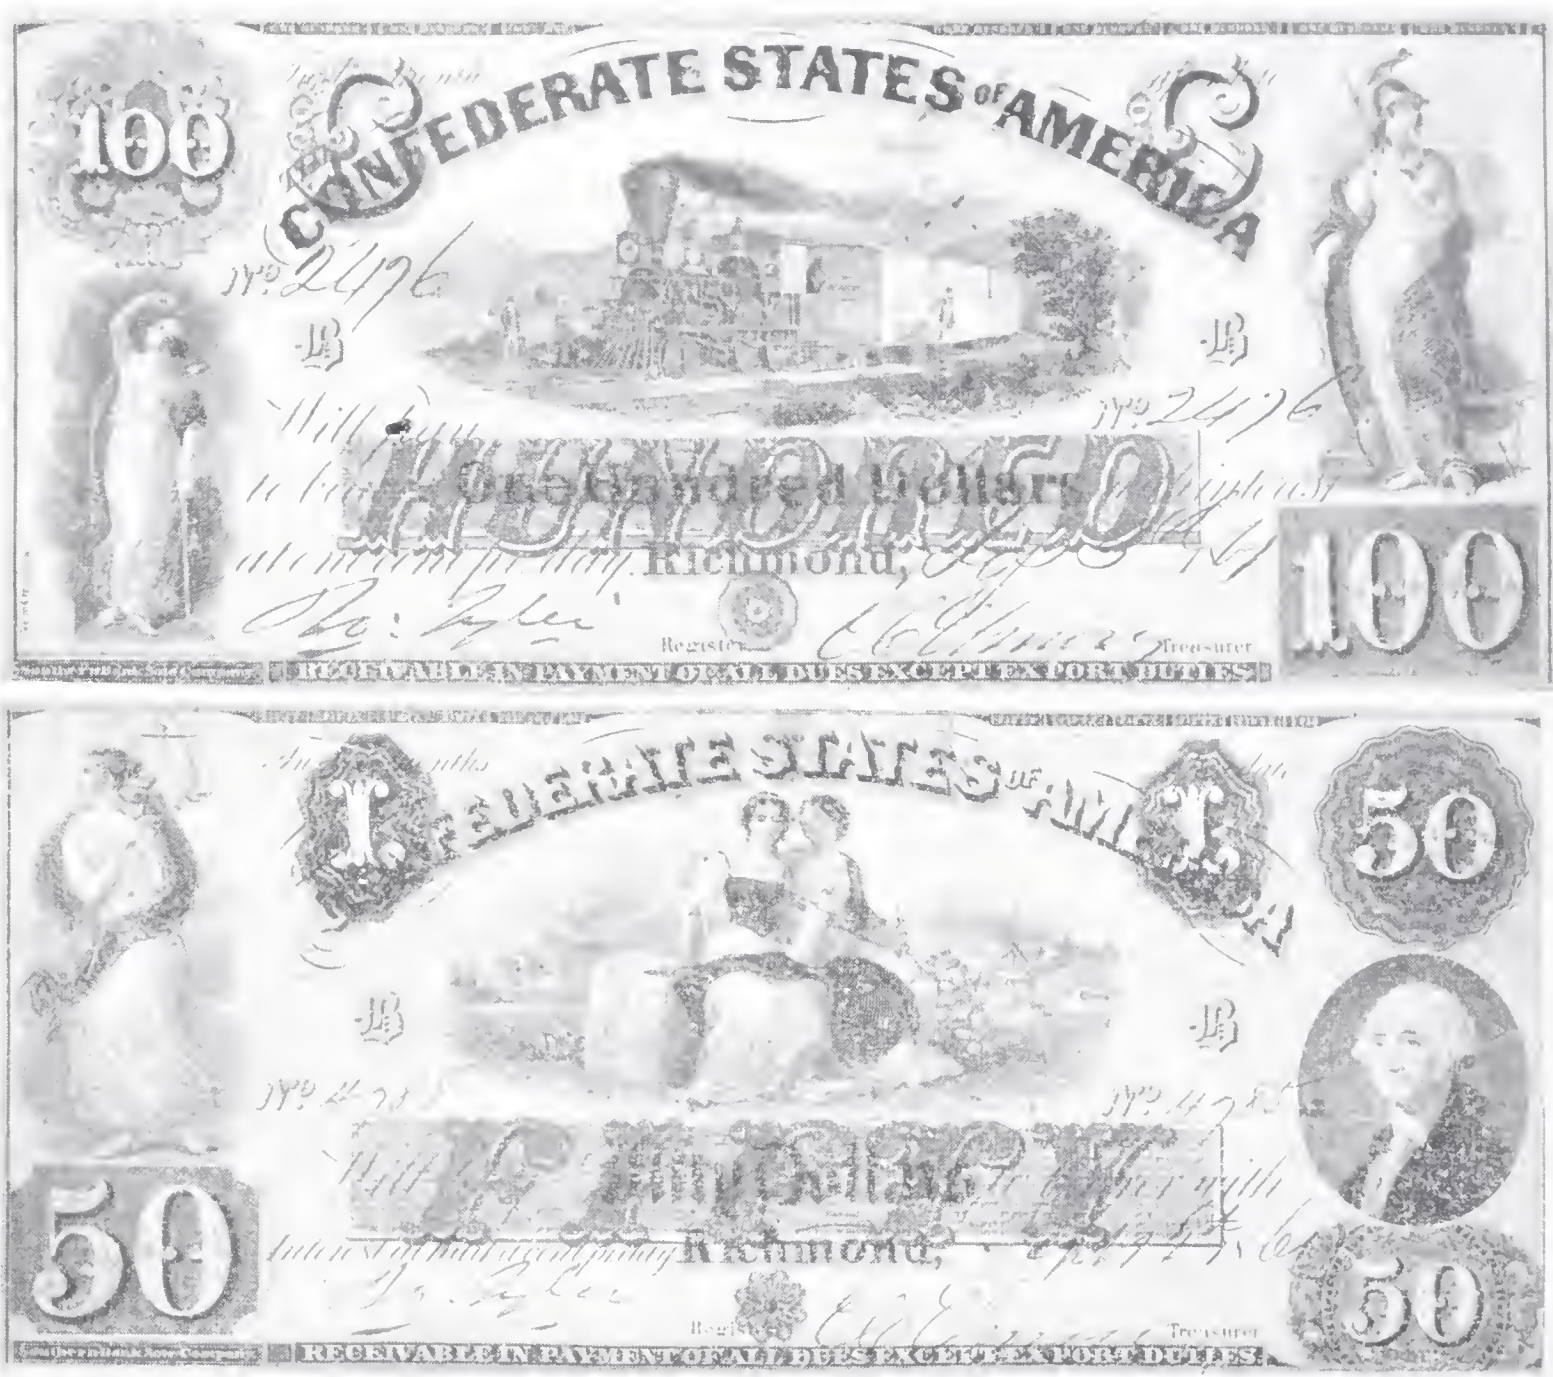

It appears that in the year 1871, there were two separate engravings for the dates of this year, one in which the figure one touches the seven and the other in which there is a space between them.

I have found specimens of both types on the one cent and two cent pieces. On the three cent and five cent pieces I have only found the date where the figure one touches the seven.

This is easily seen by reference to the accompanying cuts.

FORMING A COLLECTION OF
UNITED STATES NOTES

Assembling a collection of U. S. notes of the smaller denominations $1, $2, $5 is a really difficult job especially if all the signature varieties are wanted. The forming of such a collection is a life time work and few collectors ever complete it. If however a collector is willing to accept the types as his basis he can, within a reasonable time, obtain a complete series of the various issues and seal varieties. A collection of the large size Legal Tender, Treasury and Silver certificates with all signatures as listed in the Standard Catalogue would contain 163 varieties while a type collection would consist of 58 notes only as outlined in the following table.

New Edition

THE STANDARD TYPE LIST
UNITED STATES COINS

Listing and illustrating some early American coins, all the types of United States silver and copper coins; and giving the prices at which most of them may be purchased from reputable dealers. To which has been added a complete illustrated list of all gold and silver commemorative coins and a Paper Money Supplement. Nineteenth Edition, 1944. Large 8 vo. paper cover.

PRICE 25 CENTS

The above publication has been issued for many years under the name of the Standard Price List. Previous editions gave a detailed list of the minor coins with prices for each date. Present market conditions make it impossible to continue this feature as prices of such coins are continually changing and the list would soon be out of date.
